

Coercive Diplomacy, Sanctions and International Law

Edited by Natalino Ronzitti

Leiden / Boston, Brill | Nijhoff, 2016

Table of contents

Table of Cases; Table of Treaties, Legislation and Other Documents; List of Abbreviations; List of Contributors;

Foreword Natalino Ronzitti;

Chapter 1. Sanctions as Instruments of Coercive Diplomacy: an International Law Perspective Natalino Ronzitti;

Chapter 2. Compatibility and Legitimacy of Sanctions Regimes Michael Bothe;

Chapter 3 Confronting the Implementation and Enforcement Challenges Involved in Imposing Economic Sanctions Bryan R. Early;

Chapter 4. Sanctions Imposed by the European Union: Legal and Institutional Aspects Marco Gestri;

Chapter 5. Practice Makes Perfect, Eventually? Unilateral State Sanctions and the Extraterritorial Effects of National Legislation Charlotte Beaucillon;

Chapter 6. Sanctions Against Non-State Actors Nigel D. White;

Chapter 7. Sanctions and the Protection of Human Rights: The Role of Sanctions Committees Thilo Marauhn and Ignaz Stegmiller;

Chapter 8. Sanctions and Individual Rights Monica Lugato;

Chapter 9. International Legal Limits on the Ability of States to Lawfully Impose International Economic/Financial Sanctions Daniel H. Joyner;

Chapter 10. An Overview of International Sanctions' Impact on Treaties and Contract Andrea Atteritano and Maria Beatrice Deli;

Chapter 11. UN Sanctions Targeting Individuals and ICC Proceedings: How to Achieve a Mutually Reinforcing Interaction Marina Mancini;

Chapter 12. From Effective to Useful Sanctions: Lessons Learned from the Experience of the European Union Francesco Giumelli;

Chapter 13. Western Economic and Political Sanctions as Instruments of Strategic Competition with Russia – Opportunities and Risks Joachim Krause;

Conclusion Natalino Ronzitti;

Bibliography

Index