Informazioni sul volume

The Volume collects the results of the EU co-funded research project “En2Bria - Enhancing Enforcement under Brussels Ia, European Union Justice Programme 2014-2020, JUST-JCOO-AG-2018 JUST 831598”, and addresses art. 67 Brussels I bis Regulation devoted to the relationship between the regulation and provisions governing jurisdiction or recognition and enforcement of judgments in specific matters contained in instruments of the Union.

The first chapter specifically focuses on art. 67, examining in detail its rationale, scope of application and the interpretative issues on coordination between the lex generalis and different lex specialis rules.

The following chapters deepen the analysis in specific fields where concurring rules on jurisdiction and free movement of decisions have been adopted, also exploring the relationship of the Brussels I bis Regulation with instruments that do not directly trigger the disconnection clause at hand.

The book highlights how fragmentation and specialization of private international law leads domestic courts to adopt solutions that are deemed to be effective and efficient, but might not necessarily be uniform throughout the European judicial space.

In an effort to improve judicial cooperation and uniform application of EU law, the Volume offers and comments principles, recommendations, and guidelines for political institutions and practitioners.
