

CONTENTS

	page
1. Introduction. Solidarity: traditional international law vs. modern international law and universal international law vs. law of regional organizations
Leonardo Pasquali
1.1. The concept of solidarity	1
1.2. International law and solidarity in the historical evolution of the international community	7
1.3. Research question and methodology	10
1.4. Plan of the book	16
2. Historical background of solidarity in European law
Aldo Petrucci
2.1. Preliminary remarks	23
2.2. What is Roman law and why do we refer to it as the historical background to EU law?	24
2.3. What is the position of Roman law in relation to individualism or solidarity?	27
2.4. Some final reflections	33
3. Solidarity between law and religion
Pierluigi Consorti
3.1. Introduction	35
3.2. Solidarity, sociology, religion and law	36
3.3. Solidarity and religion in EU law: the vertical approach	40
3.4. Solidarity and religion in EU law: the horizontal approach	43
3.5. Conclusion	44

4. Solidarity and constitutional law in Italy and other European countries

Elisabetta Catelani, Pietro Milazzo

4.1. Premises	47
4.2. The evolution of solidarity in Italy in the twentieth century: from value to principle	49
4.3. Solidarity and the Constitutional Court	51
4.4. Solidarity in the current emergency: the evolution of a principle	53
4.5. The principle of solidarity among the European Constitutions	55
4.6. Solidarity in the Constitutions and in the Preambles	57
4.7. Implicit and “immanent” solidarity (with focus on rights connected to the welfare state)	61
4.8. Solidarity and the political local authorities	64
4.9. Conclusions	66

5. Federalism, the principle of solidarity and the third stage in the division of competences

Marcelo Labanca Corrêa de Araújo

5.1. Introduction	69
5.2. Federalism and unity in diversity	71
5.3. Division of competences I: from dual to cooperative federalism	75
5.4. Division of competences II: from cooperation to solidarity	79
5.5. Uncooperative federalism: when the duty of solidarity implies the obligation not to cooperate	87
5.6. Conclusion	88

6. A realistic solidarity: Immanuel Kant’s legacy for modern Europe

Giorgio Ridolfi

6.1. Introduction	91
6.2. Freedom, equality and people’s sovereignty in Kant’s writings	92
6.3. Political reality and ethical ideals	96
6.4. From unsocial sociability to solidarity	99
6.5. A cosmopolitan way to solidarity	102
6.6. Conclusions	104

7. The dynamics between interest and solidarity as the functional basis of current international law

Gerardo Martino

7.1.	Whither solidarity in international law? From mutual benefit to the development of solidarity-based relations	107
7.2.	Functional solidarity	111
7.3.	Onusian solidarity	111
7.4.	Economic solidarity	113
7.5.	Regional solidarity	115
7.5.1.	Solidarity in the European integration process	116
7.5.2.	The functional value of solidarity for the launch of the European integration process	117
7.5.3.	European solidarity through positive integration	118

8. Solidarity and international investment law: reconciliation within the institutional framework?

Francisco Pascual-Vives

8.1.	Introduction	124
8.2.	Solidarity and contemporary international law	124
8.2.1.	An international system organized in different normative frameworks: a general overview	124
8.2.2.	The functions of public international law: the progressive affirmation of the principle of solidarity through the development of peremptory norms	126
8.3.	The complex and emerging interaction between the principle of solidarity and international investment law	127
8.3.1.	Formulas promoting solidarity within the institutional framework: the role of international organizations	127
8.3.1.1.	The United Nations: human rights violations and transnational corporations	128
8.3.1.2.	The European Union: from an atomized to a centralized legislation	131
8.3.2.	Formulas promoting solidarity within the bilateral framework: human rights litigation	136
8.3.2.1.	Business and human rights arbitration	136
8.3.2.2.	Extraterritoriality, limiting the forum non conveniens doctrine and the challenges arising from parallel proceedings	139
8.4.	Final remarks	143

9. International solidarity and human rights. Some remarks about the draft United Nations declaration on the right to international solidarity

Miriam Schettini

9.1. Introduction	145
9.2. International solidarity and the path towards the universality of human rights	148
9.3. The draft declaration on the right to international solidarity	155
9.4. A human right to international solidarity: perplexities and prospects	159
9.5. Concluding remarks	162

10. Solidarity in the EU. Beyond EU treaty provisions on solidarity

Francesca Martines

10.1. Introduction	165
10.2. The origin: revisiting solidarity in the Schuman Declaration	169
10.3. Solidarity through law. The role of the Court of Justice	173
10.4. Equitable burden-sharing, solidarity, and voting procedures in the Council	176
10.5. Solidarity and differentiated integration	180
10.6. Duty of solidarity and conditionality	183
10.7. The example of relocation of asylum seekers: what lessons for solidarity?	185
10.8. Concluding remarks	189

11. The reform of the Common European Asylum System: the new Pact on immigration and asylum

Elena Crespo Navarro

11.1. Introduction	191
11.2. The current Common European Asylum System and the need of reform	193
11.3. The New Pact on Migration and Asylum	200
11.3.1. A new common framework for asylum and migration management	200
11.3.2. Enhance the system's capacity to determine the responsibility for examining the application	202

	page
11.3.3. Streamline procedures	205
11.3.3.1. The screening of third country nationals at the external borders	206
11.3.3.2. Border procedures for asylum and return	206
11.3.4. A new solidarity mechanism	208
11.3.4.1. Solidarity contributions	208
11.3.4.2. Application of the solidarity mechanism to disembarkation following search and rescue operations	209
11.3.4.3. Application of the solidarity mechanism to situations of migratory pressure	211
11.4. A new system for addressing situations of crisis and force majeure	212
11.5. Final remarks	214

12. Solidarity with candidate States: the case of the Western Balkans

Teresa Russo

12.1. Introduction: solidarity as principle of EU internal and external action	219
12.2. Some solidarity profiles in the Union's enlargement policy	222
12.3. Western Balkans' association as a framework for a "solid" stabilization of the region	225
12.4. The check of migration flows as a shared responsibility in the framework of "Status agreements"	228
12.5. Conclusions: strategic solidarity towards the Western Balkans	233

13. Solidarity among member states of regional organizations as a development of the good faith principle

Ivan Ingravallo, Nicola Ruccia

13.1. The good faith principle in regional organizations	237
13.2. Is solidarity a development of the good faith principle?	240
13.3. The level playing field of solidarity in the Charters of regional organizations	244
13.3.1. The explicit solidarity	244
13.3.2. The implicit solidarity	250
13.4. Concluding remarks	253

14. Solidarity in the African System

Anna Pitrone

14.1. Introduction	257
14.2. Solidarity among States: from the Organization of African Unity to the African Union	259
14.2.1. From non-intervention to non-indifference	259
14.2.2. The African Peace and Security Architecture	262
14.2.3. African Union Peace Support Operations	266
14.3. Solidarity among peoples: The Pan-African Parliament	268
14.3.1. The limits of PAP	271
14.3.2. The new PAP Protocol	272
14.4. Solidarity rights in the African System	273
14.5. Conclusions	280

15. Solidarity in ECOWAS, a sub-regional African organisation with relevant similarities to the EU

Gabriele Rugani

15.1. Introduction: do the similarities between ECOWAS and the EU also concern the development of the principle of solidarity?	284
15.2. The 1993 ECOWAS Revised Treaty and its Chapter XI: an attempt towards the establishment of the social and solidary dimension of West African integration	287
15.3. Solidarity between Member States and non-nationals: the example of the ECOWAS General Convention on Social Security	289
15.4. Solidarity among Member States: the ECOWAS response to the Ebola epidemic	294
15.5. Concluding remarks: a solidarity “in books” that often does not result in solidarity “in action”	299

16. Solidarity in the League of Arab States

Matteo Del Chicca

16.1. Introduction	303
16.2. The historical background of the League of Arab States	306
16.3. The 1945 Pact of the League of Arab States and the other international organization treaties of the same period	311

	page
16.4. The international agreements adopted to implement what stated in the Pact of the League of Arab States	315
16.5. Concluding remarks	318
17. Solidarity in the law of MERCOSUR
Marcílio Toscano Franca-Filho
17.1. Introduction: solidarity and law	321
17.2. Solidarity and MERCOSUR law	325
17.3. Regional convergence in times of pandemic	327
17.4. Short concluding note	331
18. Epilogue: lessons, questions, and outlook
Leonardo Pasquali
18.1. Solidarity and international universal law	333
18.2. Solidarity within the laws of international regional organizations: the state of the art	335
18.3. The evolutionary path of solidarity within the laws of international regional organizations	341
Index	349

